About the Author

Valecia A. Baldwin-Johnson was born in Brooklyn, New York where she lived for many years with her family. Like many children, her childhood was filled with a mixture of good times and bad times. It was during Valecia's early childhood that she first experienced "true" pain. Pain that she soon realized would follow her for many years to come.

After dedicating numerous years to self-discovery, healing, and forgiveness -Valecia is now ready to share much of her faith-filled journey. It is her desire to share this message with the world..."Say no to a life consumed with darkness and insist on seeing the light. You are worthy! You are not alone! Trust me, there are an infinite number of people who will love you just the way you are."
